Robert: yo been traveling heading back home. do you have a mini bio and headshot and link to your work that i can put on my site i'm launching next week? i'm doing a "collaborators" page with links, part of the overall method of how Robert: my business is going to work me: yeah, let me pick one out Robert: cool me: what's going on with the Wikileaks option?
Robert: i am going in to HBO with it to see if i can get in on their project
Robert: monday me: this agent Gregg Housh has is going to fag up the Anonymous book Robert: mmm, what's he going to do about that?
me: I'm not sure, Housh just forwarded me his notes on the proposal I wrote Robert: ok, i will read it me: actually, it's not that bad Robert: well, he's right in the sense that you've done the meta Robert: but you haven't done the "and here is the story of little janey whatsherfuck as she goes through her double life"
Robert: we will follow jany on her roller coaster ride etc.
me: yeah, that shouldn't be hard Robert: now, there's an argument to be made that you shouldn't do that and i could even be convinced Robert: but i'm easy. a lit agent is hard Robert: because he knows what will sell to a publisher
Robert: alright plane is descending, so i am offline ttyl send me that stuff when you have a chance.
Robert: also, i LOVE the opening metaphor and i think you can tinker with it a bit and make it even stronger
